Via of Lehigh Valley gets $7,000 grant for retirement program

by Express-Times staff
Thursday January 15, 2009, 12:45 PM

Via of the Lehigh Valley received a $7,000 grant from the Two Rivers Health and Wellness Foundation for its retirement program serving adults with developmental disabilities.

Via's retirement program helps people transition from Via's sheltered workshop to activities in senior centers and programs in communities, according to a news release.

Lisa Musselman, Via community connections director, said this helps seniors live vibrant lives. Activities focus on maintaining quality of life, giving back to the community and staying active.

"There is one similar national model in Cleveland that has had success in transitioning seniors with disabilities to community based settings," Musselman says. "It is our hope that the county systems for the aging and Office of Developmental Programs embrace this model as a best practice model for seniors with disabilities and advocate for it as a way of doing business in this region."
